Changes to business segment classification

Effective from the first quarter of the current fiscal year, we have revised our business segment classification to better reflect the direction of our business development, taking into consideration the expansion of our business domain, “giving forms and life to process materials.”

Former segments		New segments
Surface treatment business		Surface creation segment
Foundry business		Material + form creation segment
Environment business		Environmental technology segment
Material handling business		Handling technology segment
Special equipment business* ¹		Supporting technology segment

*1: Certain businesses previously included in the former special equipment business have been transferred to other newly defined segments.

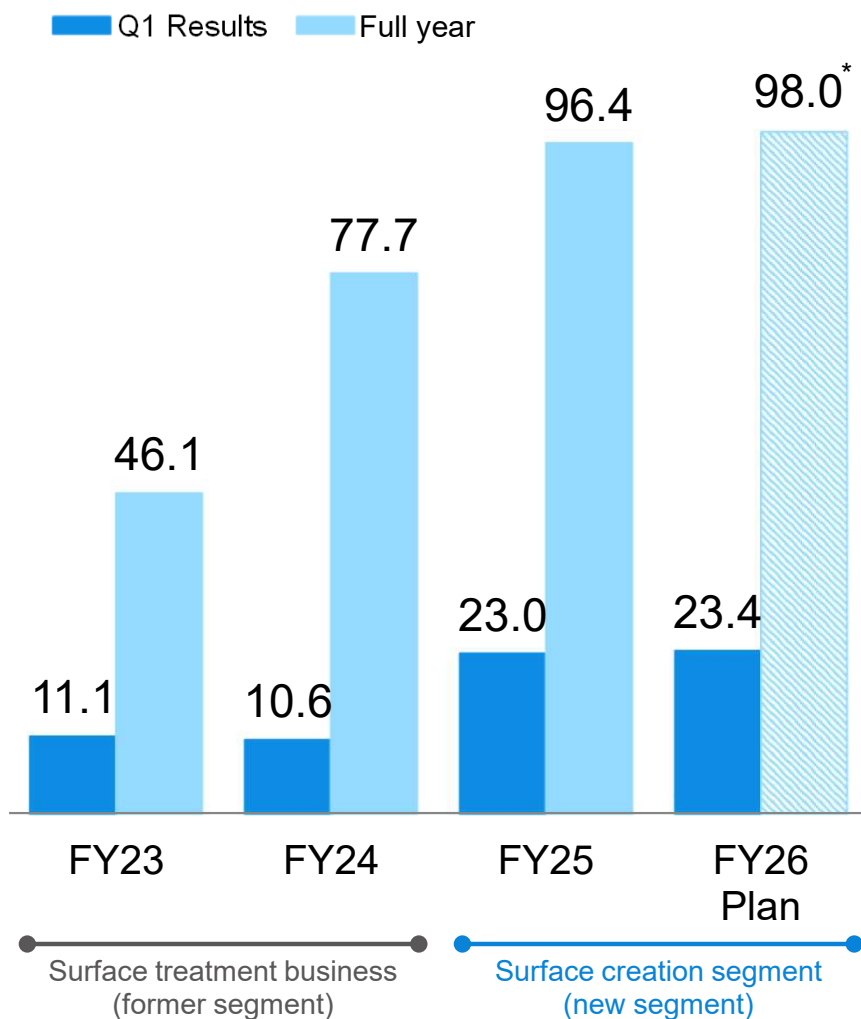

■ Breakdown of the transferred businesses from the former special equipment business

Relevant business	Former segment	New segment
Functional powders Ceramics	Special equipment business	Material + form creation segment* ²
Force sensors	Special equipment business	Handling technology segment* ²

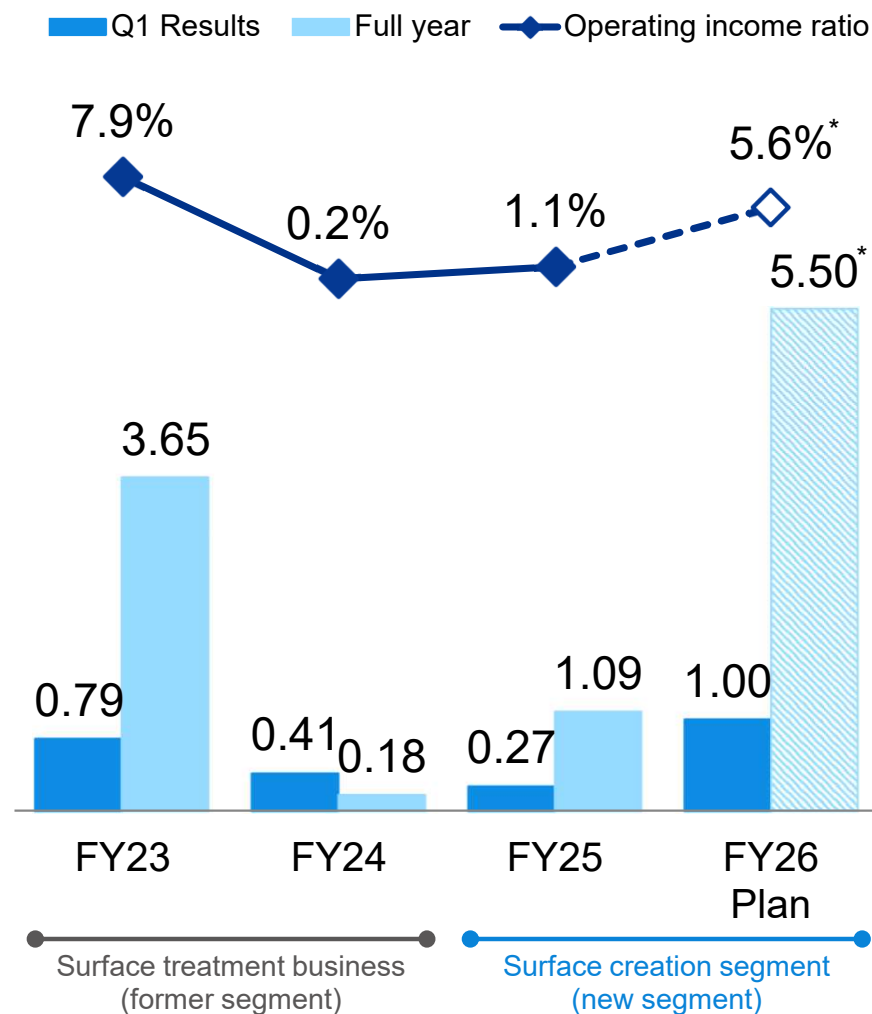

*2: For segments affected by the business reclassification, reference information on figures under the previous classification and for the transferred businesses is provided in the segment overview sections on the following pages.
